Short term forecast:

This afternoon, it will be rather dull and overcast. It will remain dry for most, but the odd spot of light rain cannot be ruled out. Gentle winds.
This evening, the thick cloud will persist and some showery rain will spread in from the west through the night, some heavy in places. A few patches of mist and fog may develop as well. A mild night.
Tomorrow morning will see another dull start with bursts of showery rain falling for many. Thick cloud will linger for much of the day, but it will clear to the south in the evening.

Road conditions:

RSTs will hold above zero tonight under thick cloud cover. High confidence.
